Talking to Young Children. Once you create an account at Breastcancer.org, you can enter information about your breast cancer diagnosis (e.g. breast cancer stage), plan your treatments, and track your progress through treatments. Based on your unique information, Breastcancer.org can recommend articles that are highly relevant to your situation. If you care for young children (ages 3 to 9) as a parent or grandparent, it may be tempting to shield them from the fact that you have breast cancer.
